

Steps for Filtering Content in Internet Explorer:

Click on Start.

Highlight Settings and click on Control Panel.

Double click on Internet Options. This will open the Internet Properties window.

Click on the Content tab.

Under the Content Advisor option, click on Enable.

Under the Ratings Tab, there are four categories: Language, Nudity, Sex, and Violence. Select a category to view the rating levels. The rating level is indicated below the slider.

There are five ratings for each category that range from 0 to 4; zero (0) referring to highest level of security and four (4) referring to lowest level of security.

To adjust the rating level for each category, adjust the slider to specify what users are allowed to see.

To set a password, click on the General Tab.

Under User Options, select the option: Supervisor can type a password to allow users to view restricted content. Then, under Supervisor Password click on Change Password and type in a new password, confirm it and click OK.

Click Apply. Click OK.
